The Classroom Innovation

I have completed several ACUE courses (Association of College and University Educators) at Florida Gateway College. One ACUE tool that has proven to be incredibly valuable is the Exit Ticket. Students complete the exit ticket at the end of each module in online courses. The students are asked to choose one of the following questions:

1. Name one important thing you learned in this module. How can you use this learning further on in this course or in other courses?
2. What was the most difficult part of this week's module for you to complete? Why do you think this was so difficult?
3. Which reading or supplemental video was most helpful for you to understand this topic? Why was it so helpful?
4. Do you have any suggestions on how I can improve this module's content to help you better understand the topics?
5. What are a couple tips/ideas from the module that you can use going forward in this course, other course, or in your work life.

The directions ask the student to answer the question in two sentences. I use the assignment to measure attendance/course participation. It is a wonderful opportunity to connect with my online students on a weekly basis.
