NORTHWEST FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE

Background

The College was founded in April 1963 as Okaloosa-Walton Junior College (OWJC), the 18th of the state's eventual 28 junior and community colleges. The College first opened its doors to students in August 1964 at a temporary campus in Valparaiso. The first student body consisted of 767 students. The first commencement of 85 charter students took place on May 1, 1966, in Perrine Park, Valparaiso. Today, the College serves more than 10,000 students each year in credit and non-credit programs. In addition to the College's main campus, Northwest Florida State College operates a joint campus with the University of West Florida in Fort Walton Beach, the Chautauqua Center in DeFuniak Springs, the Robert L.F. Sikes Education Center in Crestview, the South Walton Center in Santa Rosa Beach and the Hurlburt Field Center.

In over 50 years of service, Northwest Florida State College has earned a reputation for educational excellence and community involvement. NWF State College offers bachelor degrees, associate degrees and certificates.

The College's 264-acre main campus in Niceville includes instructional facilities, administrative offices, the Raider Arena sports complex and wellness center, the Mattie Kelly Fine & Performing Arts Center and Amphitheatre, the Mary Lou O'Connor Child Development & Education Center, a Criminal Justice Training Center, the College's Learning Resources Center, an observatory, Veterans Success Center and the Collegiate High School.

On commencement day, Northwest Florida State College celebrates the achievements of its students – who are the true measure of the College's success. Congratulations!

Accreditation

Northwest Florida State College is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges to award baccalaureate and associate degrees, certificates and diplomas. Contact the Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia 30033-4097 or call 404-679-4500 for questions about the accreditation of Northwest Florida State College.

HISTORY OF ACADEMIC REGALIA

The origins of academic regalia date back to as early as the 12th century. Scholars defined as either a teacher or student were required to wear the dress of a cleric. Long gowns and hoods were necessary to keep warm due to unheated buildings. The traditional gown and hood have transformed into the academic regalia worn during commencement today.

There are several characteristics for the gown. The sleeves are pointed for the bachelor's degree. The gown for the master's degree has oblong sleeves and doctoral degrees has bell shaped sleeves. The gowns for the bachelor's or master's degrees are untrimmed. The doctoral degree gown has three bars of velvet used across the sleeve and down the front. The facings and crossbars may be velvet of the color distinctive of the disciplines for the degree earned.

Hoods are generally black and made out of the same material as the gown. The length of the hood varies for each level. A bachelor's degree must be three feet, master's degree three and one-half feet, and doctor's degree, four feet. The hood for the doctor's degree should only have panels at the sides. The hoods are lined with the official color or colors of the college conferring the degree. The edging of the hood should be velvet or velveteen, two to five inches wide for the bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees. The color is indicative of the subject to which the degree pertains.

The cap worn for commencement is called a mortarboard. The color is black as well as the tassel. The tassel can vary depending on the subject area and level of education. The doctoral cap may have a gold tassel.

Academic regalia have been worn by many scholars throughout the centuries. The tradition will continue at Northwest Florida State College.

RECOGNITION LEVELS

For a degree program (Baccalaureate and Associate) a student's total academic record is reviewed to determine eligibility for recognition of outstanding academic achievement. The levels of recognition for students enrolled in degree programs include:
